

Foreword

"Forward!" was the cry of the pioneer, and "Ever Forward" is the slogan of the students of Fargo High School. The staff of this Cynosure Annual has attempted to unfold in the following pages the complete panorama of school life, as the students travel along on the road of education.

Dedication

To those who suffered hardships to develop our great state; to the men and women who helped to promote not only transportation, but life on the prairies as well; to these staunch, hardy ancestors of ours we pay tribute.

PROPORTION THE PERSON OF PARTS AND PARTS OF THE PARTS OF

To those who survived through the days of the covered wagon, stage coach and river boat, that we, their descendants, might enjoy the modern train and swift airplane—as well as other comforts of modern fe we against this 1937 eartism of the Cynosire Annual.

THE TEACHER

The teacher is a prophet

He builds for future time
The teacher is an artist

He molds the personality
The teacher is a builder.

Who works in every clime
The teacher is a friend

To whom we owe fidelity.

The tocher is a citizen
Improving all society
The teacher is a pioneer
Who tries, at last succeeds.
The teacher's a believer
In mirth and in sobriety
Yet ever standing forth
To help us in our needs

LITERARY AND MUSIC COMMISSION

About fourteen years ago, at the suggestion of Mr. B C. B. Tighe, the Literary and Music Commission was formed. Its purpose has been to serve as the organization which solves problems common to every society

Membership of the commission includes the advisers and vice presidents of each society. At the first meeting the chairman is chosen from the faculty and the secretary the the students. Mr. Tighe is a member ex officio of the group

As it was originally planned, the commission had three duties to perform. The first was to manage delice to the like the control of the debate program has been transferred from the commission to another group. The commission now arranges the social cases, and the commission to another group to club meetings. As the wal duty, the group discusses and passes the rules and regulations which affect all the societies.

The Literary and Music Commission is a local, in the democratic policy in the plays produced in Fargo H.: School. In the local transfer is school plays were introduced and the activities of the commission according to the class of these plays, which formerly were presented only by the play-producing societies, were then opened to anyone in the study the

In the venetic organization was to ed by four men, including B.C. B. Tighe of Light Through Mr. Tighe's close connection with the group, Pargo High soon became affiliated with the society. This year marks the excenth anniversary of the Pargo chapter

Last were there was an innovation in the qualifications for membership. Formerly a boy had to win one major letter or two minor letters to become a member. Now, how ever, it is necessary that he win only one letter, major or minor, to become a member But the harmonic letters to be a major or minor, to become a member.

Mr. Tighe was formerly national president of the club and is now national treasurer. Every war the National Honor Society invites the members of the National Athletic Scholarship Society to the banquet. Although meetings of the National Athletic Scholar ship Society are not held regularly, there is an annual meeting for the purpose of electing officers.

SISTOCRATIC LEAGUE

The provided of serving off, is and providing for the entertainment to its facilities are still the ideals of the Sistocratic League. The League endeavors to make these ideals realities through the conscientious work of its council, its committee, and the cooperation of its mention. The executive book of the organization is the council which is emposed of four officers and chairmen of the following committees: Service, Senior Little Sister, Friendly, Dress, Music, Scholarship, and Publicity

It, attitudes to the League

The League's special projects are many.
For Christmas, Thanksgiving, and all,
And the gay Easter basket with contents
so good

Are memories we all may recall.

111

Service to others their pass-word,
And here's how they carry it out
Carrying announcements from first floor to third
Each noon, of what's up and about
Girls' lockers are checked—some red tagged,

Lost and found sales are conducte!
Our progress would surely have lagged
Were this fine committee deducted

111

They find a big sister for each new girl Who enters here during the year To help them through days that seem all awhirl,

To be friendly when all else is queer
All through the semester they keep in touch
With the new girls placed under their care;
They teach them the rules, find them new triends and such,

So that here friendless girls are quite rare.

IV

You probably would never believe
That each member helps pay the bills
For flowers sent to the bereaved
And cards to those who are ill
They call girls absent for illness
And inquire as to their health.
They sponsor a spirit of friendliness
More precious to us than great wealth.
They bring cheer to the needy and "shutin"

By reading or furnishing food,
The joy which results from the friendship's good deeds
Put all in a comfortable mood.

V

A builetin board they now keep, Showing what should be worn and when; Of suggestions Smart Sally has heaps, Just glance at it now and then.

VI

This committee is quite indispensable. To our parties, each different and gay; Its members are musically sensible. And serve in a musical way.

VII

Scholarship pins are awarded
To one girl from every class
Who has the most improvement recorded
Or her marks the others surpass.
If some subjest should prove much too hard
And it makes you disgusted and blue,
Just ask for a tutoring card
And someone will surely help you

VIII

Their aim is to get information
On what each committee is doing
And announce with loud exclamation
Whenever a party is brewing
Each month a paper is published
For you to read and then know
Just what the Council's accomplished,
Though their funds often run very low.

IX

To honor the new girls, we gave a tea;
As children we scampered and played
We sailed on a tour to lands o'er the sea
And many new friends we made.
At Christmas each guest made a toy
To be sent some unfortunate one.
On a picme there, too, was much joy.
Our parties are always such fun.

Nine little sophies, coming in late. Mr. Tighe caught one; then there were eight

Eight little sophies, thinking about Helven Along came a teacher; then there were seven.

Seven little sophies, doing magic tricks.

Along came a magician; then there were six.

Six little sophies, learning how to dive One humped his head; then there were five.

Five little sophies, hanging on a door, Mr. Sifritt opened it; then there were four.

Four little sophies, drinking hot tea. One took hygiene; then there were three.

Three little sophies, didn't know what to do. One flunked English; then there were two.

Two little sophies, trying to make a pun. Along came a senior, then there was one.

One little sophie, couldn't have any fun. He became a junior; then there were none.

The hotter the day, the busier the fountain.

The bigger the class, the shorter the recitations.

The larger the enrollment, the noisier the halls.

The dumber the sophomores, the smarter the seniors.

The longer the assembly, the happier the students.

The nearer the weekend, the poorer the work.

Here's Johnny Abbott's latest poetic effort, dedicated to Bob Mason:

He sat with her upon a bench And she said, "How time flies!" He rubbed his toe into the dirt And gazed into her—pocketbook!

She shyly looked up at the moon. Twas more than he could stand. He moved a little closer then And gently held her—umbrella!

Her lips moved softly as she sang. His beating heart now raced. He took his arm from where it was And slid it round her—dog!

Her eyes were bright, her face was near—A lovely little miss!
He turned, and with a gesture sweet.
He softly stole a—dollar!

THE END OF SUMMER

A whisper of wind down the chimney, A threatening cloud in the sky, The moaning of trees in the orchard, A shutter swings out with a clattering sound, A flurry of leaves as they fall to the ground. Summer is passing by.

ANN MURPHY

THE PIRATES' LAIR

The pirate chief reclined with easy grace Upon a velvet hassock; and the place --A dark and gloomy cavern by the shore— Swarmed with his crew, a hundred men or more: Their hard, scarred visages, the torches' flare Illumed; piled in great profusion there Was most amazing booty, wealth untold Millions and millions—chest on chest of gold; Jewels in heaps, tare laces, rich brocades; Silks, satin; plunder of wild, daring raids On luckless merchant ships. And while with glee They gloated o'er this loot of land and sea, There at the entrance of their secret cave A youth of twelve, indomitably brave, Appeared and shouted, in stentorian tones: "You are my prisoners! I'm Willy Jones, The Boy Detective!" Rash, impulsive youth! A boy against a hundred men, forsooth, They would have finished him at one fell stroke! But he was saved -thank goodness. He awoke.

"MIKE'S SONG" OR "HOCKEY! HOCKEY!"

(Dedicated to English VI, with apologies to Tennyson)

Skate, skate, skate,
On the cold white ice, O team!
And I would that my tongue could utter
My thoughts as I blow off steam.

O, well for the basketball boys,

Those that shout as they run and play!

O, well for the football lads,
That go chasing the ball if it stray!

And the lanky tracksters run

To their haven far down the line.
But O, for the clap of a million hands;

And the sound of some cheers would be fine!

Skate, skate, skate,
On the cold white ice, O team!
But the thought of a few fans to watch
Will never stop being my dream!

Jire Cosguit har order this poem that she wrote it a recent cance. Stelled, it to all boys.

Please don't allow your heart to fail Don't let your courage fade. For if you get a lemon, Then make the lemon aid!

APPRECIATION

HAVING completed our work on the 1937 Cynosure Annual, we, the staff, should like to take this opportunity to express our great appreciation to Mr. Tighe for his never failing advice and generous assistance; to Miss Schropp and Mr. Bricker for their aid; to Miss Ramstad, for the thousand and one little favors that she has done for us; to Mr. Nerhus. Patty Follett, and George Hull for helping us with our pictures; to Mr. Imai, our engraver, who by his many helpful suggestions has made our task easier; to the McCracken Studio and the Pierce Printing Company for their grand co-operation. Without the friendly assistance of all of these, the 1937 Cynosure Annual would have been impossible.
